FOOD COMMISSION OPENS NEW BUREAU

Effort is Made to Solve Farm Labor Problem by Co-operation of People of County.

OPPORTUNITY FOR FARMERS

Way is Also Opened Whereby Persons Desiring Employment Can File Their Names and Addresses.

With the labor problem on the farm becoming a bigger and most important issue each day, the employment committee of the Jackson County Food Commission, of which A. H. Ahlbrand is chairman, is directing its attention to a co-operative plan which it believes will be productive of splendid results. Two coupons are printed below, one for persons desiring labor and the other for those who desire to employ labor. These coupons can be filled out and sent to County Agent A. D. Cobb, at Brownstown.

Mr. Ahlbrand believes the farm labor problem is one of the most important confronting the farmers as well as all persons who look to the farm for their necessities of life. He explains the plan which is undertaken by his committee as follows:

In urging the increased production of food stuffs we have been told that the shortage of farm help, especially during the busy season is quite a handicap in bringing the production up to the limit. To assist in overcoming this condition, the Farm Employment Bureau was organized. In order to do effective work and make it convenient for all those desiring help as well as those seeking employment, we have arranged coupon blanks to be filled out. You will find these coupons in this issue of the Republican as well as subsequent issues. These can be filled out and forwarded to A. D. Cobb, County Agent, Brownstown, Ind., who will keep a record of them properly indexed. This record is accessible to everyone in the county and information will be imparted either personally by calling at the office of the County Agent, by telephone or by letter.

In addition to the above, arrangements will be made by the committee in each township to make the headquarters of the Bureau at some bank or store in the township.

As long as there is available labor in the particular township it will be well for those needing laborers as well as those seeking employment to consult the Township Employment Bureau first. A copy of the applications will be filed with the County Agent also, so there will be a record at both places. Should the demand for laborers be greater than the supply in our county the Bureau is in touch with other labor markets and is ready to render all assistance possible to get laborers from other points as well.

The success of this undertaking depends entirely upon the co-operation of everybody in the County. Whoever does not need extra help now, but will later on, should put in their application now, stating at what time the help is desired. This will facilitate matters quite a bit, as arrangements can be made in advance. The same can be said of

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL ARRANGE FOR MEETING

Member of Public Service Commission to Meet with Citizens on Coal Situation.

The members of the Seymour Commercial Club believe that the Indiana Public Service Commission will gain valuable information from its series of meetings arranged in various sections of the city. The first of the meetings will be held next Wednesday, it is believed, with one commissioner attending. Charles Edwards is scheduled to hold the meeting here, but the date has not been announced. The Commercial Club is expecting announcement of the time of the conference this week.

NEW ESTIMATE ON LOCAL SEWER WORK

Council Finds That Cost of Tile and Other Materials is Steadily Soaring.

LATERALS ON HIGH AND SIXTH

Property Owners Ask That Sewers be Built Before Concrete Streets Are Laid.

It is not probable that the city council will order extensive sewer constructions as long as the present high prices of tile and other materials prevail. It believes that such work that is not imperative at this time should be delayed until prices are more nearly normal. This opinion was expressed at the regular meeting of the council last night.

Petitions for two new sewers have been on file for several weeks, however, and these will likely be constructed during the summer as the property owners have asked for the work, despite the prices which are the highest ever known. One petition calls for a sewer on High street, east of the Blish Mill, and the other beginning on Fourth street at Bill then north to Sixth and east on Sixth.

The council accepted the plans and specifications for the work several weeks ago and the required advertisement was made. The prices of materials have soared so rapidly however, that contracts were not disposed to construct the sewers at the estimated cost and no bids were received. At the meeting last night it was voted to readvertise for bids upon a new estimate of the city engineer. His re-estimate for the High street sewer was $560 and $2,180, for the Sixth street sewer. It is understood that the property owners desire that the sewers be laid before the streets are paved with concrete. Both streets are included in the big township contracts which were recently awarded by the county commissioners. The property owners say that this is the best time to lay the sewers as they do not wish to have the new streets torn up later, and it is only a question of time until sewerage will be necessary on both streets.

The council will probably meet in two weeks to receive the bids so there will be no more delay than is necessary.

The council also voted, four to three, to pay the Seymour Concert Band the sum of $300 for public concerts on the streets and at the park during the summer. The objection

8-HOUR DAY ESTABLISHED IN LOCAL RAILROAD YARDS

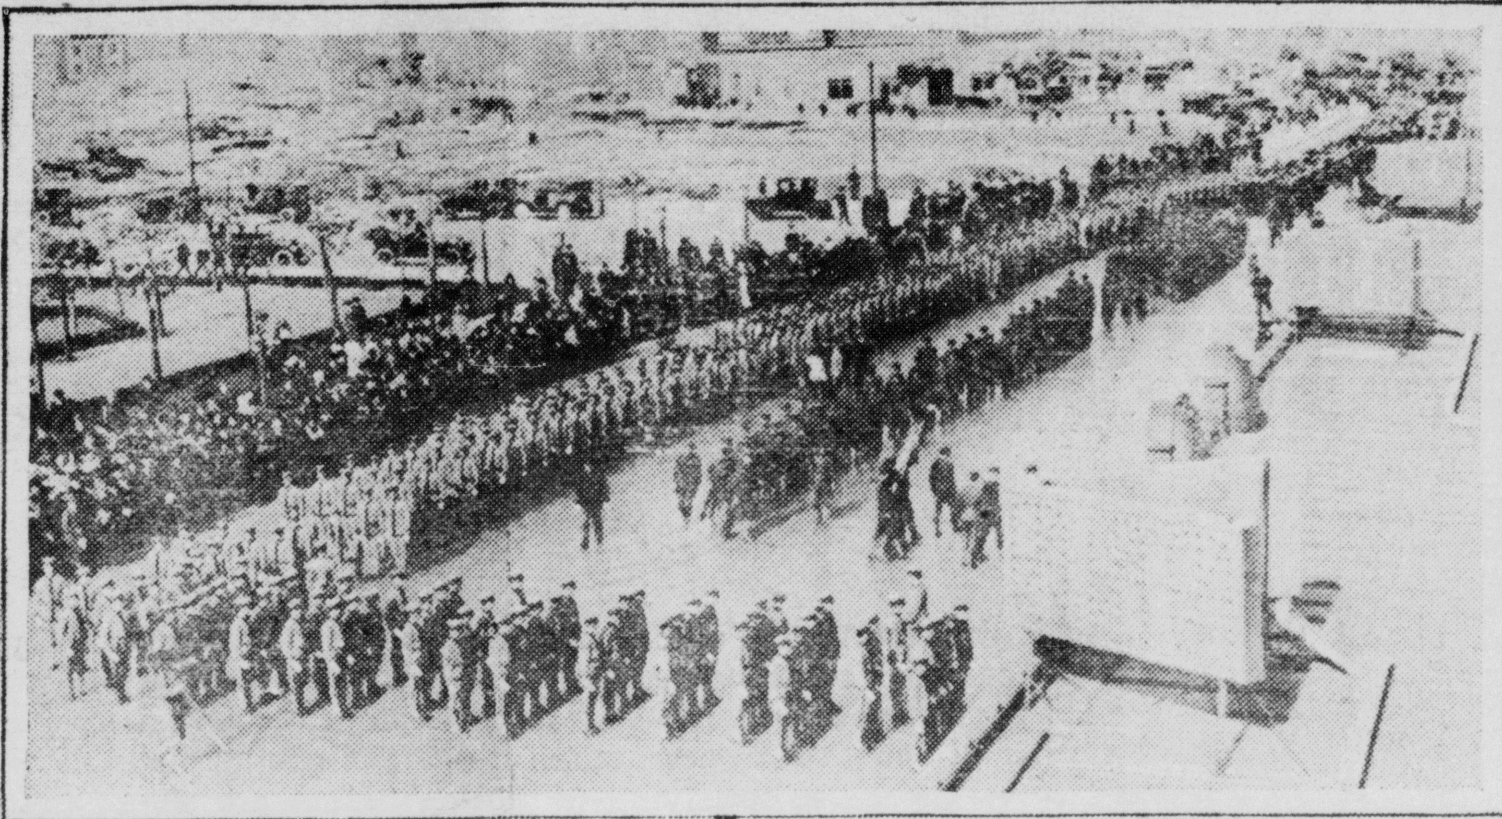

Three Shifts are Now Employed in B. & O. S-W. Yards—Men Profit by Change.

The eight-hour day was established yesterday in the local yards of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad for the first time. The new arrangement conforms to the requirements of the Adamson law and the agreement which was recently reached between the railroad managers and the representatives of the employees. Up to this time there have been but two shifts with a number of extra men to assist at rush times. Under the new plan the extra men become members of the regular crews and others will be employed as extra yardmen.

There are now three shifts of eight hours each. The first of from 6 a. m. to 2 p. m. The second is from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m. and the third is from 10 p. m. to 6 a. m. Each crew is composed of an engineer, fireman, conductor and two helpers. Since the new agreement became effective the men have worked under the old schedule but many of them have made from three to five hours overtime each day computed on the basis of an eight-hour day. While the overtime has resulted in increased pay checks the men say they are glad that the new plan is effective.

Mr. and Mrs. James Houston and children left today for Knightstown for future residence.

CALIFORNIA BOYS ARE AMONG FIRST TO GO

Students of the Leland Stanford, Jr., University of California assembling in one of their buildings to say farewell preparatory to starting for France as members of the American Hospital corps.

LOCAL MEN READY FOR REGISTRATION

Large Number Here Between Age Limits Fixed will be Subject to Conscription in Army.

MINISTERS TO BE EXEMPTED

Indiana Has Registration Machinery Set for Motion as Soon as Measure is Passed.

With the senate and house conferees agreeing on the principal provisions of the conscription bill it is expected that it will be enacted into law within a few days and within a short time thereafter the registration of all men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty, inclusive, will be completed. Indiana has its registration machinery set and ready for motion as soon as the bill is passed and signed by the President and will be one of the first states in the Union to complete the registration of its men within the age limits fixed by the law.

Under the tentative agreement reached by the conferees, the regular army and National Guard are to be raised to full war strength immediately. The Guard is to be drafted into federal service and will become a part of the regular army, although it is announced by the war department that an effort will be made to have each Guard unit retain its identity. The regular army and National Guard will be recruited to war strength under the volunteer system first and if that fails the department will resort to the draft.

The bill provides that exemptions shall be passed upon civil tribunals and not at military hearings. It is planned to have a local tribunal and appeals may be taken then to another in case any conscripted person is not satisfied with the first decision. There shall be one tribunal for each 30,000 inhabitants. Jackson county would have one, under this provision.

Exemptions from the selective draft were left virtually as originally suggested by the general staff. Those absolutely exempt include officers of the United States and any state or territory, ministers, students of recognized divinity or theological schools and members of "any well-recognized religious sect or organization at present organized," whose "existing creed" forbids participation in war. The last class is not exempt from noncombatant service.

In addition, the President is authorized to exclude or discharge from draft the following: County and municipal officers, Custom House clerks, postal employees, workmen in navy yards or arsenals or armories; others in the Federal government's employ, whom the President may designate; pilots and marines actually employed in sea service; "persons engaged in industries, including agriculture, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment or the effective operation of the military forces or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency."

those having persons dependent upon them for support, and those found to be physically or morally deficient.

BELGIUM'S FLAG TO FLY OVER THE DARDANELLES

This is One of the Revised War Aims Announced by the Allied Leaders.

By United Press. Paris, May 11.—Belgium's flag to fly over Constantinople and Belgium to control the Dardanelles is the allies' revised plan for its war aims respecting Turkey. On high authority today it can be stated that this change in the program has been thoroughly discussed by the allied government.

Since new Russia renounced claim to the straits, a change in the Turkish problem has been forced on the allies. None of the entente powers will think of the war's conclusion with the Turks still in Europe. To grant control of the most important waterway in Europe to any of the world's great nations might cause jealousies and endanger the future world peace for which the allies are fighting. As a result it is likely it will be given to Belgium.

ALLIES' COMMISSIONERS TO LEAVE THIS COUNTRY SOON

French and British Representatives Well Repaid For Their Visit to America.

By United Press. New York, May 11.—Having practically completed their work of showing America how it can best help the European allies to win the world war, the French and British commissions joined here today where they were given a farewell reception. The commissioners are going home. The date of their departure is not far distant.

Both commissions are highly pleased with the world war conferences. Both commissions return home with American cash in hand, with the promise of American food, with early help promised in shipping and with fighting men soon.

The conferences are believed to have completed a system of anti-submarine warfare which will soon wipe out the U-boat menace.

GERMANY TO HOLD OUT

Food Dictator Says This is Possible Despite Poor Crops.

By United Press. Amsterdam, May 11.—Despite unfavorable crops in Turkey, Austria and Hungary, it is certain that Germany will manage to last until the new crop is harvested, Food Dictator Batoeki told the reichstag committee in Berlin today.

ROOSEVELT ISSUE STILL MUCH ALIVE

New York Representative Proposes to Make Division Part of Washington Guard.

EFFORT TO LIMIT THE DEBATE

Objections Offered to Administration's Revenue Bill at Senate's Hearing.

By United Press. Washington, May 11.—That the Roosevelt division issue is still very much alive was evidenced today in both houses of congress.

Representative Murray Hulbert, of New York, Democrat, introduced a bill authorizing Roosevelt to raise a volunteer division as a part of Washington's national guard. Hulbert voted against the Roosevelt division amendment to the selective army bill on the ground that it might interfere with plans in that measure.

Another evidence of the fight that is still to be made on the Roosevelt issue came when Gardner, of Massachusetts, and Austin, of Tennessee, objected to a suggestion of Chairman Dent of the house military committee, that debate on the Roosevelt idea be limited to two hours.

Owing to the pressure on congress for action on the army bill it is practically certain that the fight for the colonel will not endure long.

The report of the conference committee on the measure, it is believed, will be agreed upon early next week.

While the house continued debate on the administration's $1,800,000,000 revenue bill, the senate finance committee today began its hearings on the measure. Testimony from those affected by the taxes on incomes, excess profits, beverages and tobaccos were heard.

Paul C. Cravat, of the Bethlehem Steel Company and K. A. Kratz of the Lackawanna Steel Company, speaking on the income tax objected to tax on stock dividends.

They said none of their stockholders objected to tax on incomes, but said that stock dividends do not amount to actual dividends because they take nothing from the corporation and add nothing to the income of the stockholders. Kratz pointed out that frequently there would be double taxation because stock of subsidiary companies taxed might be the property of the same man who owned stock in the parent company which also would be taxed.

GERMAN ATTEMPTS ON THE SOUCHEZ RIVER REPULSED

French War Office Reports Further Gains, Despite Furious Counter Attacks.

By United Press. London, May 11.—German attempts to shake the British grip on positions south of the Souchez River were repulsed, the war office reported today. The French war office reported another advance and capture of German positions, despite furious counter attacks by the enemy.

RUSSIAN WORKERS IN NEW UPRISING

Schiselberg Munitions District Revolts with Intention of Organizing a Republic.

LITTLE VIOLENCE BY REBELS

Announcement Made of Plan to Call World Meeting of Socialists in a Neutral Country.

(By William G. Shepard, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Petrograd, May 11.—The Schiselberg munitions district revolted today.

Workmen and citizens of the district announced their intention of organizing a separate republic. The district is located in a section of Petrograd.

Representatives of the workmen's and soldiers' committees left here at once for the district to dissuade the revolters from their purpose. The provisional president of the munitions district was arrested by the rebels. Apparently there was no violence in the revolt.

Another instance of reaction was evidenced today when it was announced that the workmen and soldiers are planning a world meeting of Socialists in some neutral nation to discuss world problems. Those behind the plan insist that the conference is not identified with the conference at Stockholm schedule in June.

PERSONNEL OF RUSSIAN COMMISSION IS ANNOUNCED

Elihu Root to be Chairman and Will be Accompanied by Bankers and Labor Leaders.

By United Press. Washington, May 11.—The President has completed the personnel of the commission which will go to Russia from this country to assist the provisional government. The personnel will probably be announced late today as follows: Elihu Root, Cyrus McCormick, C. R. Bertrou, New York banker, Charles Edward Russell, Socialist leader, James Duncan, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, Dr. John R. Mott and Charles R. Crane, of Chicago.

Major-General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army and Real Admiral James A. Glennon will be the military and naval members of the commission, it was announced.

CLEANUP IN MAY WHEAT

Joseph Leiter Reputed to Have Made $3,000,000.

By United Press. Chicago, May 11.—Joseph Leiter, who with his father is reputed to have lost $10,000,000 in trying to "corner" the world's wheat supply in 1899 has come back in May wheat, it was reported today. Leiter's earnings are estimated at $3,000,000.

Mothers' Day

Mothers' Day is the sweetest of all our institutions. Its spirit is kindly, genuine, sincere. Its place in the calendar of all our emotions is a place of precedence. But how few of us go beyond the spirit of the occasion. So many of us depend upon a kind of mental telepathy to inform mother of our love, respect, admiration. A little gift is really needed. A practical expression of reverence is so satisfying to mother. Here are suggestions for that gift—all of them very fitting.

ELLIS TO STAMP OUT DISLOYALTY IN SCHOOLS

Superintendent of Public Instruction Suggests Ways in Which Children Can Aid.

Indianapolis, May 11—Absolute and imperative need of stamping out quickly and permanently all disloyalty in the public schools and colleges was demanded by Horace Ellis, superintendent of public instruction, in a short talk last night to members of the special committee of educators evolving a plan to aid the state in war service.

"I have received in the last few days," said Mr. Ellis, "eleven letters bearing the seal of the United States government. They are eleven concrete cases of disloyalty in our schools. I do not believe the teachers had any idea of doing a willful wrong, but they are wrongs. Just this afternoon I received word of the desecration of the flag in a school in a city of more than 25,000 population. And the superintendent hesitated long enough before acting to notify me. I told him to send in his resignation."

Mr. Ellis would not divulge the name of the superintendent.

"You gentlemen may talk conservation if you want, but one thing I want you to drive home with all your might—talk Americanism, teach it," the superintendent added.

Mobilization of the full strength of the college, university and public school systems of Indiana for conserving the food resources and aiding in the great war practically was assured. The meeting was held in the offices of the state superintendent. Chairmen of subcommittees of the committee appointed Saturday submitted suggestions as to what part the colleges and universities, high schools and grade schools may take in increasing the food supply, and in working out practical methods of economy. No mention was made of eliminating the teaching of German in the public schools, a matter that was left for action of the state board of education which meets at the state house this morning.

Recommendations in brief are:

Formal recognition of the supreme sacrifice made by the boys and girls in their enlistment for actual military and Red Cross service and of their title to credit in their school subjects for the remainder of the school year. Agricultural service on farms in the interest of increased production, conservation and economical consumption of foodstuffs, especially for boys.

Plain sewing for home, Red Cross and charity; canning and preserving fruits and vegetables, for the girls.

Home and commercial garden and fruit culture.

A plan was approved for mobilization of the educational systems, with the counties as units. The County superintendent of schools and the city superintendent are authorized to call meetings and perfect an organization, work out practical methods of aiding the state and nation in any way possible. It has been planned, thus to aid the state board of health, and to aid the industrial enterprises in increasing production, as well as the agricultural interests.

At the Indiana State Normal School Prof. F. S. Bogarus reported, a special emergency course of instruction has been added and it will be compulsory on all who attend. This course has for its purpose the instruction of teachers on economy in living.

Training for Aviators.

Indianapolis, May 11.—Instructions in aeronautics were started here today under direction of the extension division of University of Indiana in preparation for men to enlist in the flying corps of the U. S. army. The course will be preliminary to actual flying. Instructions are under di-

CANADIAN CAMPS ARE BUSY PLACES

The Dominion's Part in Great War is Not Nearly Played
in England.

DRILLING IS STRENUOUS

Officers Have Begun New System of Preparing Men for Active Service.

(The Canadian camps at Witley and Bramshot, the largest in England, are the scenes of intensive training such as will probably be adopted in American training camps. These camps were visited in April for the first time by an American newspaper correspondent, who describes in a series of three articles the methods of training which American soldiers may expect.)

(By F. W. Getty, United Press Staff Correspondent)

Witley, England, May 11—Canada's part in the Great War is not nearly played. Fifty thousand brothers of the Canadians "who saved the day at Ypres" are here today, getting ready to carry on the share of the burden the Dominion has shouldered.

Spread out over the rolling hills of Surrey are the two greatest Canadian camps in all England. Here, in what was once a wilderness of pine and spruce and ivy, Canadian officers are drilling men to take their places in the big offensive, already under way on the West Front.

Witley, the largest of the camps, and Bramshot, where the raw recruits fresh from Saskatchewan or Nova Scotia are drilled are exclusively Canadian organizations. The few units of Americans have moved off to the front. Imperial officers are here only on visits.

The result is that the spirit of Canada and a new-found efficiency which the commanders declare is making the over-seas forces the finest trained in the world permeate the camps. The men are fighting for England, but when they speak of "Home" they mean Canada.

Canadian officers in charge of these camps have begun a new system of preparing the men from over-seas for actual warfare in France. Conditions, paralleling as closely as possible those at the front, either exist or are manufactured at Witley.

The pines of Gibbet Mountain, overlooking the picturesque "Devil's Punchbowl," see just as strange sights these days as when hanged men kicked in the wind in Cromwell's day. Topping a ridge that winds for miles through the thickly wooded or green-meadowed country, a trench with the yellow clay soil thrown up on either side, standing out vividly against the landscape, zig-zags its way. Paralleling this trench and separated from it by a few hundred feet of waving grass and here and there clusters of barbed wire is another—the "Boche's."

For a moment everything is quiet, save for the occasional harsh cawing of a flock of crows. Then the silence is broken by a crash of musketry and the rattle of the deadly machine guns—a weird yell, rising from the depths of the trench, is followed by the appearance of ghostly figures in gas masks. Charging across the open space of No-Man's Land into a storm of drifting smoke from smudges, representing poison-gas, they rout the "enemy" from his trench, and go about consolidating the position—just as they will have to do in France tomorrow.

There is no child's play about the battle. Bitter hand to hand encounters with spring bayonets, harmless but painful, are fought in the communicating trenches, the "wounded" are carried back to the "British lines" on stretchers, while the raiders work like madmen, blocking the communicating trenches and getting their Lewis guns into position.

This is a new phase in the training—this sham-warfare under typical conditions. And Canadians back from the front declare that already it is showing good results.

Another thing the Canadians in the Surrey camps are trying for the first time is a new system of bayonet fighting in the trenches. The old and the French system was to feint with the bayonet, draw the Hun off his guard and then lunge over-handed at his chest. Today the Canadians lunge straight from the hip, dropping the butt of the rifle and bringing up the point of the bayonet sharply if they miss.

"Go right out after him" is the new command to a Tommy learning this phase of the fighting, and it appeals to the Canadians more than any other form of battle. "Go right out after him" is a sort of watch-word around Bramshot and Witley anyway—it's symbolic of the Canadian spirit.

These Canadians today are different from the first over-seas contingent. And those that came with the first call have changed too. In 1914 and 1915 the complaint among the British officers was that while the Canadians "fought like the devil" they were not well disciplined and were apt to run wild. Today the same old dash and fearlessness is there, but the Canadians are doing something even more useful for the Allied cause. They are making records daily as the best disciplined, best trained units of the British army. Canada and Britain and the Allies can thank Bramshot and Witley for this newfound efficiency which had added to the most fearless fighters they possessed the quality of discipline. A new system of intensive training, recently instituted, is making the Canadians the equal of any troops in the world.

There's a secret about this system—they got it from the Boche.

Mrs. Chester Spillman and Mrs. James Purkheiser went to Cincinnati this morning to spend several days with friends.

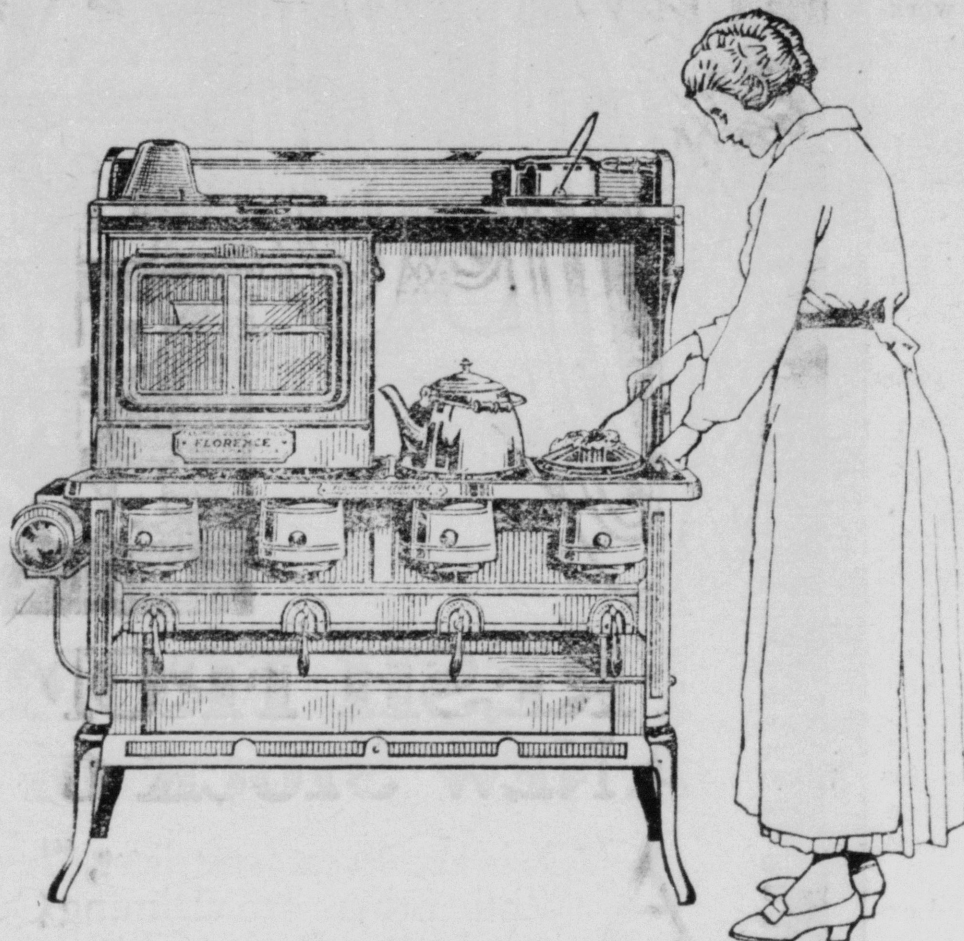

Mrs. Frank Bretthauer and daughter went to Columbus this morning to spend the day with friends.

THE NEW RUSSIA.

The world is watching Russia. From the dispatches received from Petrograd we are lead to believe that the new democracy is facing grave internal trouble. Apparently, the dissenting is due to the old fight between factions for control. Conditions are unsettled and new developments may come at any moment.

But the conditions in Russia are not at all surprising. The people have cast from them the burden of the world's most autocratic government and have set up a democracy. It cannot be expected that the people are already familiar with the purposes and the advantages of a republic form of government. The dispatches indicate that a portion of the populace, at least, have the impression that a democracy means of government of individual rights—where an individual is answerable only to himself and has no responsibilities to his government. This erroneous belief will be corrected with time, of course. The sudden change from an autocracy to a democracy presented many new and strange situations and the people must make their adjustments gradually.

The commission of able Americans soon to sail for Russia ought to be of valuable service to the new government. The men represent the principal branches of service and will doubtless be able to explain to the people through their leaders just what is required of the individual citizens for a well regulated democratic government. The Russian people—that is, some of them—evidently have missed the aim of the recent revolution. Today's dispatch from Petrograd says that a certain district composed of munition workers have rebelled against the provisional government with the intention of organizing a separate republic. Such dispatches show that the revolutionary spirit still prevails and until that is quieted and the people are fully informed of their new requirements a stable government cannot be established. The world is looking to America in this crisis and it is America's duty to point the right way and remove the obstacles in Russia's path towards a government of freedom and individual liberty. The American commission will be able to do this.

THE COAL SITUATION.

Announcement is made that the price of coal at the mines is one dollar more than it was a month ago. We are given no encouragement that the retail price will be any lower than at present and it is hinted that the price may continue to soar during the summer when the demand is the smallest of any time during the year.

Something is radically wrong. It is claimed that there is no shortage of coal at the mines. It is asserted that the mines are producing as much or can mine as much, as the public needs. The solution of the problem is difficult, but it is to this end that the Indiana public service commission is turning its sole attention for the present. The public meetings which have been planned throughout the state should furnish much information to the commissioners. There is surely a solution to the problem. The present conditions are working a serious hardship on the people. The commission has turned its efforts upon a condition that ought to be settled soon and in its endeavor the commission has the co-operation and support of the public.

Everybody has a solution for the high price of food commodities, but the fluctuating wheat market indicates that speculation is responsible for a big part of the increased price of grain. To the outsider it appears that a splendid opportunity is offered to the government authorities to do a little patriotic service for the folks at home.

The publication of the report that a Chicagoian has "clean up" three million dollars by speculating on May wheat ought to give congress a chance to look into the effect of speculation on the high prices.

GROVES RETURNS
TO DAILY WORK

Wife Is Delighted When Tanlac
Brings Husbands Quick Relief.

Michigan City, Ind., May 10, 1917.
—"My husband has gone back to work since taking Tanlac and he says he feels better in every way," Mrs. W. H. Groves, 219 Cedar St., this city, wife of a sheet metal worker at the Rumpey Co., Laporte, said on November 8.

"For several years Mr. Grove has suffered from stomach and kidney trouble," she continued. "He has no appetite and the little food he did eat didn't agree with him for he was constipated all the time. His kidneys caused intense suffering. Severe pains came in his back frequently. His condition finally became so bad that he had to quit work."

"Tanlac seemed to improve Mr. Groves at once. He has been at work six weeks now and he says he is getting stronger every day. The pains have disappeared from his back. His stomach is in much better condition, too. What he eats now agrees with him. The constipation has been greatly relieved."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, loss of appetite, after effects of pneumonia, colds, la grippe and the like.

Tanlac is being introduced and explained in Seymour at Federmann's Drug Store, successors to Carter's Drug Store.

BIG DEMAND FOR WOMEN TO TAKE PLACES HELD BY MEN

Many Large Firms are Arranging for Female Labor After Conscription Comes.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, May 11—Demand for women laborers to take the place of men in the state is steadily increasing, according to Henry A. Roberts, state statistician, and practically all large firms in the state are making arrangements now to hire women for nearly all classes of work as soon as the conscription bill is effective. Ranks of men workers in many classes of labor have already been depleted through men leaving to join the national guard, take officer's re-

During April 1,373 were found positions through the state employment office, of which number about 200 were women. This was a great increase over last year, as during the months of April, May and June last year only 1878 were given positions.

The employment offices are making arrangements to supply the great demand for workers in several sections of the state by making arrangements with city judges to release prisoners charged with vagrancy, intoxication and minor offenses on condition they will go to work on farms.

This arrangement has been tried out successfully at South Bend through co-operation of city Judge L. M. Hammerschmidt with Alexander Langel, sup't. of the South Bend branch of the employment bureau. Satisfactory reports have been received from farms where the men are employed.

SOCIAL EVENTS

PRINCIPAL HONORED

Paul Morris, the principal of the Crothersville high school was pleasantly surprised Thursday evening by the high school students and the members of the faculty. The affair was in the manner of a farewell party as Mr. Morris left today for Ft. Benjamin Harrison, having enlisted in the officers reserve corps several weeks ago. The evening was enjoyed in a delightfully informal manner, and was concluded with the serving of a dainty luncheon.

CLASS ENTERTAINED

The members of the Senior class of the Crothersville high school were the guests of Miss Marie Barringer at a pleasant party, given Wednesday at her home north of Crothersville. The time was spent in the usual social manner, with music and games and concluding the diversion a luncheon was served.

BEDEL-ABELL

Miss Margaret M. Abell, of Rockford, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Abell, and Paul Bedel, of this city, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bedel, were united in marriage at 11 o'clock this morning at the office of John Congdon, the justice of the peace. Mr. and Mrs. Bedel will make their home at Rockford.

DIRECTORS MEET

87 PERCENT. OF ENROLLMENT AT H. S. IN ATTENDANCE

Many of the Pupils in Grades Have Been Ill From Effects of Vaccination.

The attendance of the Shields high school, considering the fact that many of the students are suffering with measles and the effects of the vaccination, has been as large as could be expected. An estimate taken this morning of the attendance of the junior and senior high school, showed 87 per cent. to be present. The percent. of the grades, below the junior high school classes, was 54. It was lower than the high school owing to the fact that the measles are prevalent among the students in the lower grades. The school authorities feel satisfied with the report, and are confident that the attendance will be increased during the next week. The authorities also believe that the smallpox epidemic is under control in the schools as only one student out of 1200 has taken the disease.

THE HUSBAND HUNTER

By ERNEST A. YOUNG.

"Heart smashing is bound to end in husband hunting," proclaimed Charles Darton, the cynic.

"What do you know about it? You never had a heart to smash," taunted Billy Drew.

Bert Temple, the host and presiding genius at many a smoke-talk in the cozy bachelor quarters, pricked up his ears, for his friends were getting on a subject which had acquired a new interest for him.

He had lately discovered that he had a heart, and he was inclined to feel a bit heady over it.

"You are wrong, Billy," Charles asserted, "for it was a woman's perfidy that bleached my hair years ago."

"Story!—old brand of romance," announced Drew with a wave of his fat hands.

"I fail to see any romance about the process of getting stung at a time of life when a decent young chap of a mushy temperament thinks he is in love for the only possible time, and the girl plays up the delusion until she finds what a boob he is and then lets him drop."

"That, in substance," continued the cynic, "was what happened. I was the boob and Miss Doris Ward was the perfidious maiden, and it happened eight years ago, when I was twenty-two. Chortle over it if you find it humorous, because I see the joke now as plainly as you do. I also see how Miss Doris Ward comes to Dunbury for a winter of sport—husband hunting."

They laughed at the story, of course—all except their host. He had been poking the fire and he dropped the poker as if it had burned his fingers. The party broke up and no note was taken of anything unusual in Temple's manner.

"Charles, the cynic, jilted eight years ago by Doris Ward," mumbled the host as the door shut out the last of his guests.

It was like a clip from a blackjack to the senses of Bert Temple. Twenty-minutes ago the memory of Doris Ward's voice was thrilling through his soul, as he had listened to that voice the evening before. Sure enough, at the ripe age of thirty-six he had fallen heels over head at first sight. Although they had been hardly two hours in each other's society he had as good as told her that she was "the wonderful woman," and that he was prepared to close up a marriage contract for the earliest date that could be fixed upon compatible with the conventions.

Now Temple felt sick, dizzy, bewildered. "I was the boob and Miss Doris Ward was the perfidious maiden," were the words that bored into Temple's consciousness. In other words, at the callow age of twenty-two Charles Darton had been jilted by Miss Ward, and now he, Bertram Temple, at thirty-six, had betrayed the same brand of callowness as that youngster, whom Temple had never particularly admired.

Now, according to Charles, the cynic, this young woman, whose unique charm had appealed to Temple's untutored heart, was a husband hunter. That meant that she was done with the royal sport of killing for amusement, and had taken up the practical vocation of bagging the game. And it seemed that she had marked him—Bert Temple, age thirty-six—as a likely mark.

There was little time in which to make up his mind what to do. In an hour he was to call at the inn to take Miss Ward morning.

There wasn't time to think out a really good plan for showing Doris Ward that he was aware of her little scheme of marrying the first man in Dunbury whom she chose to smile upon. So he got out his car and asked Mollie Clews to go with him.

Temple in his racer, with the chattering little magpie snuggled on the seat beside him, slackened the pace in front of the inn. He could see Miss Ward at the foot of the walk, waiting for him.

He meant to slow up just enough so she would be sure to see how pretty and happy Mollie looked, and then, like a cad, he would speed on and leave the husband hunter to guess what had happened.

Chug!

The racer stopped short. The engine went dead.

At that juncture Charles Darton came up with his car, and in a twinkling he had Mollie beside him. "You didn't speak to your—er—Charles Darton," stammered Temple as Doris took Mollie's place in the stalled motor.

"Was that Charles Darton?" she exclaimed. "Really, I had the impression he was tall and blond."

"He told us," Bert persisted, "that you jilted him eight years ago. And now you would pretend—"

"It was my cousin Doris who did the jilting. She told me all about it. She called him No. 23, if I remember rightly. She is lots older than I am and different about—about flirting."

They were still sitting beside each other in the stalled racer when they were aroused to the passage of time by the purr of Darton's motor returning with Mollie after an hour's spin. In confusion Doris Ward tried to get out and flee into the house. But Temple, recklessly hilarious and brazen, would not let her go.

"He said you were a husband hunter," he told her.

"I'm not one—any more!" she protested.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson VII. May 13
JESUS THE TRUE VINE. John 15: 1-16
GOLDEN TEXT—I am the vine, ye are the branches.—John 15:5.

It certainly does seem strange to have no lesson given from John xiv or xvii, but we must not pass them by. It is true that part of chapter xiv was suggested in connection with the last review, but that gave no opportunity for the study of such a chapter.

In the end of yesterday's lesson chapter Peter insisted that he was ready to lay down his life for Christ's sake, but the Lord, who knew all that was in him, said that the cock would not crow before Peter would thrice deny Him (xiii, 36-38). If our Lord immediately added the words, "Let not your heart be troubled," and the words following He would seem to say, "Al though I know you so well, Peter, and how weak you are, I would not have you troubled, for some day I will get you all home to the mansions prepared for you, and then there will be no more failure on your part, but you will each have a throne and reign with me over the tribes of Israel (Luke xxii, 29, 30). It is truly pathetic to hear Him say to Philip, "Have I been so long a time with you, and yet hast thou not known Me?" (xiv, 9.) But that was His continual lament. Israel doth not know. They know not the thoughts of the Lord. If thou hadst known; O righteous Father, the world hath not known Thee (Isa. i, 3; Mic. iv, 12; Luke xix, 42; John xvii, 25). If we only knew Him, and through Him the Father, how very different the life of a believer would be! If the Comforter, the Spirit of Truth, had full control of us, then the peace of God would rule in our hearts. We would neither be troubled nor afraid. We would ask and receive to the glory of God, and it would be manifest to others that the Father, Son and Holy Spirit were making their home in us (xiv, 13, 14, 16, 17, 23, 26, 27). The one thing that we are here for, as the Lord's redeemed ones, is to bear fruit, more fruit, much fruit, that He may be glorified (xv, 1-8). The fruit of the Spirit is fully described in Gal. v, 22-25, and all else is from the evil one, the prince of this world of John xiv, 30. According to Ezek. xv, the vine is good for nothing if it does not bear fruit, for nothing can be made of the wood of it.

In Ps. lxxx, 8-15, Israel is spoken of as a vine out of Egypt which filled the land and covered the hills, a vineyard which His right hand had planted, but which the enemy had wasted. In Isa. v, 1-7, He again speaks of Israel as His vineyard and the men of Judah His pleasant plant and asks, "What could have been done more to my vineyard that I have not done in National Defense, he said, the association had appointed a committee of three, who are co-operating in plans for dealing with the question of keeping the white plague out of the army. He said our army will profit from experiences in European armies in the past three years and that plans are already under way to care for those who inevitably will become ill.

That latent tuberculosis conditions are made active in a large percentage of cases by pregnancy, was the theory advanced by Dr. Stephen A. Douglass, superintendent of the Ohio State Sanatorium at Mt. Vernon, O.

Every state in the union now has an organization actively fighting the white plague. This information was given delegates to the convention today by Dr. Charles J. Hatfield, executive secretary of the organization.

Dr. Hatfield said that in the past year field secretaries have assisted in the organization, or re-organization, of state associations in ten different states. Organizations have also been formed in Porto Rico, the Philippine Islands, the Canal Zone and Hawaii.

The war has given a new impetus to the work, said the executive secretary. He told of the establishment of "The American Review of Tuberculosis," the first publication of its kind in English.

"The mortality from tuberculosis is steadily declining," said Dr. Baldwin. He said constant improvement of sanitation, living and working conditions was having its effect. More emphasis is needed, he said, upon the importance of invigoration of the individual than upon the danger of infection, which he said was to a certain extent uncontrollable.

Senreco

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

The double-service tooth paste, keeps teeth clean AND GUMS HEALTHY.

Keeping the gums healthy and the mouth sweet is very important to health; more teeth are lost through the loosening of the tissue that holds the teeth in place than from decay.

Dental science to-day demands that a tooth paste must keep the gums healthy as well as clean the teeth.

Senreco was formulated to meet this requirement. Hundreds of dentists are prescribing and using Senreco because they have found that it does measure up to that standard.

SENRECO IS A WONDERFUL CLEANSER.

In addition to its remedial properties Senreco is a wonderful cleanser; acts directly on the mucin film, the basis of tartar; leaves the mouth cool and clean-feeling. As some one has expressed it—Senreco gives one a new idea on mouth cleanliness.

Get a tube to-day at your druggists or toilet counter—enjoy the healthy, cleanly feeling its use gives your mouth and gums. Notice how brilliantly white Senreco makes your teeth. It performs this two-fold service for you and yet costs no more than the ordinary, old-fashioned tooth paste that simply cleans the teeth and leaves a pleasant taste—25 cents for a large 2 ounce tube.

THE HOME GARDEN

The Republican is conducting this column with the cooperation of the National Emergency Food Garden Commission to inspire the planting of more food gardens throughout the country. Members of the commission are, Charles Lathrop Pack, president of American Forestry Association; Luther Burbank, Dr. Charles W. Elliot, Prof. Irving Fisher, John Hays Hammond, Fairfax Harrison, Myron T. Herrick, Dr. John Grier Hibben, Emerson McMillin, A. W. Shaw, Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture; Capt. J. B. White, U. S. Shipping Board; James Wilson, former secretary of agriculture. You should watch this column every day. Any questions should be written on one side of the paper and sent to the Garden Editor of the Republican.

HOOSIER BRIEFS.

Washington—Frank Blackwell, hotel proprietor, has ordered his employees to peel potatoes "thick." He sells the peels for eight cents a pound for planting use.

Evansville—Mrs. Anna Burrows called at the recruiting station to find out if her husband had enlisted. "I told him to come down and enlist because I wasn't dependent upon him," she said. Burrows hadn't enlisted and his wife started out to give him some more "encouragement" to join.

Princeton—Sixteen hundred school children today participated in a parade and patriotic school celebration.

Greensburg—Dr. Chas. R. Bird will leave within a few days to join the contingent of American doctors going to Great Britain.

Mrs. Frank Carpenter, of Peter's Switch, was here Thursday afternoon.

Head Lettuce.

A particularly shady part of your garden can be used for growing head lettuce or romaine lettuce in the warm months, says today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission, which is co-operating with this newspaper to urge more food gardens.

The quality of lettuce is apt to be injured in hot, dry weather. For that reason some sort of partial shading is desirable when the plants will not mature before hot weather sets in. Hot weather coming early in the life of the lettuce plant is apt to prevent it from forming any head.

When the garden is not shaded the lettuce may be artificially shaded in hot weather by a movable screen made by stretching cheese-cloth over a V-shaped frame made of light strips of wood. The sides of this frame should be 2 or 3 feet wide, and the frame ought to be 10 or 12 feet long. The cloth will partially shade the plant, retard evaporation of the soil's moisture, and enable the grower to produce crisp, good-flavored lettuce in summer.

Head lettuce seed should be planted early in the season, a half ounce being enough to plant 100 feet of row. The plants when quite

CHAPTER VIII. Parasites of Jerusalem.

JETHER, appalled at the magnitude of his crime in thus renouncing the God of Israel, drank feverishly as though to forget in strong drink the memory of his deed. And Tisha, curling up in his arms in the great divan of the courtyard of the house of Nadina, a few minutes later half extricated herself from his embrace and said with a soft and gentle voice:

"And now, my beloved, thou wilt not let another have the necklace Tisha longs for?"

"Nay; thou shalt have thy necklace.
I swear it," declared Jether, drawing lin, mounted or on foot?"

her to him. But she eluded his grasp, slid from the couch and shouted gladly
and triumphantly:

"Sadyk, Sadyk, the necklace! He says I may have it. Quick—the necklace!"

But ere Sadyk, the crafty jeweler, waiting within for this very summons, which Nadina had advised him would soon be the signal to bring Tisha the necklace, could respond in the gateway came a merry throng, with much laughter and loud talking. Hadramut, the Arabian horse dealer, led the throng.

and with him were Madia, Merbel and Parsodias, the Mede, all of whom had girls of Jerusalem with them—care free young women—who sang and danced for all who would pay the piper. Behind them, in more solemn dignity and alone, walked Haggai, the Judean, he who had sought to befriend Jether.
And with them all was Tola—the gay and festive Tola—in joyous mood. He came to Tisha, bowed low and kissed her hand, at the same time whispering some secret message, which made her eyes flash fire. The others, except for the Judean Haggai, all filed before the altar of Ishtar, cast incense upon the flame, placed sacrifices of golden ornaments before the graven image and then regaled themselves with wine.

Tisha clapped her hands thrice,
whereupon four dusky Nubian slaves brought big baskets of fruit and cushions for the ladies. Refreshments were served, wine flowed freely, and there was much laughter.

"Now, here's a fortunate youth," cried Tola, raising his goblet on high and drinking a health of Jether. "Behold our Jether, king at Nadina's palace, and for handmaiden the fairest of the city—Tisha."

Jether sprang upon a table to acknowledge the cheer that greeted him.
"My friends," he called, "a feast is spread within. We will make this night one long to remember. But where is my friend Put, the son of wealthy Absalom?"

Even at this moment Put arrived, somewhat scant of breath, to say that ere the feast was o'er his boasted dancing girls would put in an appearance.
As soft music was played in the house
by slaves who strummed their harps and gently clashed the cymbals, and the light became less as the setting sun disappeared behind the tops of the fig trees, Jether took Tisha in his arms and started to lead his guests into the house for the feast. But a touch on the arm made him pause. It was Mer-bel, an exquisitely dressed fop, with blond hair and a high, shrill voice.

"Good Jether," he pleaded, "for our friendship's sake, lend me a hundred shekels. To come to thy feast in better raiment I had to promise payment for this mantle."

Jether, with a careless laugh, handed him a hundred shekels in gold, whereat Tisha frowned. Merbel, with a low obsequious, took the money and cried:
"May Jether's children reign as kings of Israel!"

Parsodias, the Mede, a fierce, full bearded man, who wore a jeweled sword which never left his side, strode up to Jether: "Of thee, prince, I would learn something. I have heard thine is a land where wild beasts roam. Dost kill thy lions with bow or javelin, mounted or on foot?"

Jether, unused to city ways and speaking only the truth as he knew it in Judea, replied simply, "On foot, with knife alone, I have killed a lion."

"A mighty lion?" cried Hadramut,
the Arabian. "I shall reward thee, Prince Jether. Thou shalt have my mare, the queen of the desert. Naught cares Hadramut for thy riches, but since thou art his friend and hath slain a lion single handed, thou shalt have my mare. Between me and thee," he added insinuatingly, as he held out his hand suggestively, "What is a thousand shekels?"

Jether smiled and instinctively reached into his purse. He drew out a handful of coins and was about to count out the money to Hadramut
when the ever watchful Tola interfered.

With one quick grasp he took the money from Jether's hands and swept it into his own capacious purse.

"Keep thy tottering nag for one who hath done thee wrong, for I have seen it," he cried. "Shall Jether waste on thee a thousand shekels, when his best friend is needy? Nay, good Jether, let Tola advise thee when thou dost wish to purchase a horse."

Jether, with a laugh, turned again to Tisha. The men, with madness in their brains, were thinking little of the promised feast and much of the wine served them by the Nubians, and of the beautiful women who lolled so languidly about the garden upon the divans and cushions. Within the house the strumming of the harps and the beating of the cymbals made rough, weird music,
and as the darkness descended a score of lamps were lighted in the gardens to cast a strange and rosy light over the picture of oriental magnificence.

As Tisha, clasped in the arms of Jether, toyed with the scarf he wore, Ahab, the servant of Put, who had been waiting without the gate, approached him.

"Thy pardon, good master," bowed Ahab, prostrating himself before Je-ther. "A maiden at the gate asks tidings of Master Jether."

"A maiden asks for me? Who is she?" demanded Jether, curiously.

"I know not."

"How doth she look?"

"As one a stranger to the city, all clad in simple white, with leathern sandals. She draws her veil before her face and says, 'Canst tell me, my good man, how fareth Master Jether?'"

As Tisha started to rise as if to see the stranger, Jether held her by the arm. Tisha paused and smiled. "Wears she many jewels?" she demanded.

"Nay, good mistress, none."

"Then bid her come in," ordered Tisha triumphantly. No need to fear this rival if she were indeed so plain and unadorned. Struck by a sudden thought, she laughed and tore the scarf from Jether's neck. Then as he tried to recover it she ran round and round the garden, laughing hilariously
as she waved the scarf in her hands, circling the edge of the fountain, leaping over lovers in their wooing and all the time pursued by the laughing
Jether, who wished to regain the scarf.

Just as they circled the fountain for the second time and passed the gateway a slender, girlish figure in simple white, with veil drawn before her face, passed them. She gave a sharp cry of pain as she beheld the fluttering scarf

in the hands of Tisha, with Jether laughingly pursuing her. She paused and turned to Ahab.

"Who is she, so strange, so fair?"
she cried, tremulously.

Ahab bowed low at the mention of the wonderful Tisha.

"The joy of all Jerusalem—the most beautiful, the most superb, Tisha, whom all men worship—Tisha, the beautiful. By what name shall I announce you?"

"My name? Naomi"—the girl hesi-tated. "Nay, say nothing—I am gone."

And in another moment she had disappeared. When Jether, who had dimly seen the familiar apparition as he dashed by and had scarcely recognized it, came to the gate to see the girl who had asked for him the smirking Ahab told him the maiden had made a mistake. As Jether, his eyes half filled with tears for a cause he knew not, again wound the scarf around his neck Tisha stole up behind him and asked
"What dost thou see?"

"Nothing—a sudden thought," he replied softly, "a memory drifting on the waves of wine. Perchance I seemed to see a maiden I knew among the hills at home. Who was she? I wonder was it all but a dream, or did I see Naomi standing here amid all the wickedness of Jerusalem? Naomi—I wonder."

Tisha climbed upon a cushioned divan, raised a goblet of wine far above
her head, ere she drank, and cried:
"This night is dedicated to love."

An answering chorus of approval gave a mighty echo, and Tisha leaned over Jether and kissed him.

"Put," she suddenly called, "where art thy boasted dancing girls? We would have entertainment, music,
wine and dance."

NADINA, MOTHER OF TISHA.

"Pay no more attention to this young fool Jether."

Put clapped his hands thrice and gave a signal to Ahab, who motioned to one of the Nubians. Within the house the sound of music now grew louder and louder, as the musicians thrummed their harps and clashed the cymbals. The soft voices of lovers were drowned in the crash of the musical instruments and the thrum-ming of the harp strings. Then within the gate glided half a hundred or more dancing hours, fair of face, barefoot, clad in soft and flowing garments which were scant, yet picturesque, displaying many bare limbs and ivory shoulders. Round and round they whirled, while Put and the wealthy young men of Jerusalem gazed admiringly and applauded at intervals. Faster and faster grew the dance as with one accord the young women faced the statue of the Babylonian Ishtar, and finally in an ecstasy of adoration

MOTHERHOOD WOMAN'S JOY

Suggestions to Childless
Women.

Among the virtues of Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the ability to correct sterility in the cases of many women. This fact is well established as evidenced by the following letter and hundreds of others
we have published in these columns.

Poplar Bluff, Mo.—"I want other women to know what a blessing Lydia

E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been to me. We had always wanted
a baby in our home
but I was in poor health and not able to do my work. My mother and husband both urged me
to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, my health improved and I am now the mother of a fine baby girl and do all my own house work."—Mrs. ALLIA B. TIMMONS, 216

In many other homes, once childless, there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable

"The sword of the Lord is filled with blood, for it is the day of his vengeance. Your idols shall not save you, neither shall your abominations avail
you, for the Lord God hath turned his wrath upon you, and ye are all doomed.
A doom upon the house! A doom upon this house! Woe unto ye all, woe unto ye all!"

And while all present sat stricken with awe and fear the holy man slowly withdrew, still shouting his curse
upon the house of Nadina.

For perhaps half a minute silence reigned. The revelers ceased their riotous behavior. Lovers hesitated and spoke not. Then, as if by one accord, all broke into an outburst of hilarious and uncontrollable hysterical laughter.

"Lights, lights!" cried Tisha, breaking away from Jether and clapping her hands to the slaves. "Bring more wine, and let there be music!"

Nadina made her way through the thrang to Tisha while Tola and Jether drank together.

"Pharis, the sea captain, has come,"
whispered Nadina to Tisha in great excitement. "Attended by slaves who bear his treasure chests, he is now waiting within. I have told him I would bring thee to him."

Tisha laughed scornfully.
"Bring me to him?" she repeated.
"When did Tisha seek favors from any man?"

Nadina shook her roughly by the arm.
"This man is a great sea captain with much wealth. Couldst thou but win his favor, thy fortune is assured.
Pay no more attention to this young fool Jether when thou mightest even

Get at The Source of Your "Skin Diseases"

Don't be misled by this term, for the appearance of pimples, boils or rashes indicate something more serious than a mere "breaking out" of the skin. These eruptions are, in reality, signals from nature that the blood is impoverished, debilitated and in need of help. Of course you can sometimes drive away the infected places by applying a salve or lotion, but unless you treat them through the medium of the blood, they will occur again and again.

S. S. S. has proven its wonderful building and tonic properties in thousands of cases arising from disorders of the blood. It washes the poisons from the system and aids the blood in its work of cleansing and invigorating

the body organs, throwing off waste matter, and keeping the body in a normal, healthy condition.

Prove these facts for yourself by

JOHN WANAMAKER The Merchant Prince of America On Newspaper Advertising

"When this little store closed its doors on its first day's business, away back in 1861, the sum of $24.67 was found in the old-fashioned till under the counter; the 67 cents was left there for making change next morning and the $24 was taken out by the founder and spent with the newspapers, which were asked simply to say that the new store was open and doing business, and had a good stock of goods useful to the people.

"Our little allowance of advertising money went to the newspapers
then, as it goes, nearly altogether,

today, because, if I ever have a monument for discovering anything, it will be for finding out that the only advertising of direct and instant benefit to both merchant and customer is in the daily newspaper of known circulation. All others are vanity and vexation of spirit.

"Throughout fifty-five years of experience we have not been able to discover that there was any other rightful function of advertising than to do just that one thing—to inform the public that the merchant had brought in certain goods, with a proper description of them, and what the honest prices were."

It isn't probable that the fellow who wrote, “I Didn't Raise My Boy to be a Soldier,” will ever become a national hero.

After all, every man in New York isn't a financier. One New Yorker has admitted that he spent $75 for rich soil to cover a vacant lot where he planted potatoes and was afterwards informed by a suburban resident that he couldn't possibly grow more than $25 worth of spuds on the ground.

With the country filled with revolutions we suggest that Russia establish a safety zone for the American commission that will soon sail.

The weather man may be a “slacker” but we must admit that if he slacks up on this rain he will be doing his patriotic duty.

W. J. Bryan, many times candidate for president, former secretary of state and erstwhile peace advocate, has announced that he will give a series of lectures on farming throughout the South. The agricultural world is doubtlessly breathlessly awaiting his advice.

Speaking of W. J. B. reminds us that the present conditions are pretty severe on peace lecturers on the chautauqua platforms. No wonder they are giving their thoughtful attention to corn and beans.

Old Czar Nick is charged with nearly everything, but the most serious is the accusation that at one time in his life he wrote a poetical drama. His drop from the beautiful realm of poetry to the cold, harsh prosaic zone must have produced some jar.

One spring poet bursts forth something like this:

We ought to sing
When it is spring:
Sweet zepthers, etc.

But really, in view of the weather conditions, we don't see any reason for any gleeful outburst of song.

After the American commission explains to each one of the hundred million or so of people in Russia that they are not acting very nice and that revolutions are not becoming to their new democracy, we firmly believe that conditions will be restored to the tranquil state of happiness, contentment and prosperity.

Texas girls are training to fight air battles for Uncle Sam which may explain the crowded, congested condition of the aviation corps.

It wouldn't be necessary to hold a public meeting here to tell the Indiana Public Service Commission that the residents of Seymour want cheaper coal.

With all the talk going around about slackers, Cupid admits that he is having a tough proposition.

Says the Louisville Courier-Journal:

“Et tu liver?” observes the woman with market basket, as she notes disconsolately the latest prices. “And if the family takes to a vegetarian diet finally, it may be because they et tu much liver.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Why should we worry about meatless days with White River so close and scores of fishermen who admit that their catches each day would supply one community?

There is one consolation that the width of doughnuts remains the same, even if the hole is twice as large.

This from a Michigan paper goes to prove that commercialism too often protrudes itself into the sacred scenes of life: “The bride walked down the aisle to the strains of Mendel and Son's wedding march.—Toledo Blade.

And after hearing what Joffre and Viviani had to say about the Middle West, we're mighty proud that we live here.

Notice to Stockholders.

Notice is hereby given that the seventeenth annual meeting of the stockholders of the Jackson County Loan & Trust Company will be held at 7 p. m. Monday, May 14th, 1917, at the office and banking room of the Company in the City of Seymour, Indiana.

J. Price Matlock, Secretary.

Many people have commented that they have never “seen a spring like this,” but T. W. Harrod, of this city, says he personally remembers one of the hardest snow storms he ever saw just fifty-three years ago today.

Although no new cases of smallpox have been reported outside of homes that are now under quarantine the health board says there are several suspected cases which may develop within the next twenty-four hours. The board points out that persons who have been exposed to smallpox may develop cases before Tuesday or Wednesday or next week and if no other cases are reported by that time the quarantine will likely be lifted. The quarantine is still in force and positive announcement was made this afternoon that it would not be lifted before Sunday.

M. F. Bottorff and daughter, Mrs. Pearl Summit, will go to Columbus to attend the opening of the Bottorff-Simmons new hardware store Saturday afternoon and night.
